The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Tax Savings Cost You More

No matter what any government agency does to help the taxpayer with his financial woes, it costs the taxpayer more.

President Ford, in his move to stem inflation laid an extra dollar a barrel tax on oil. Since then, pump prices have risen more than 15 cents a gallon.

Last week he announced that he would de-control fuel prices. Mosts analysts see 25 cents more at the pump for each gallon.

Postmaster General Benjamin Franklin Bailar reported last week that the last increase in postage had not worked the way it should. Postal patrons cut down on their mailings. The result, he said, is that the Post Office Department is handling less mail and, naturally, taking in less money.

On Sunday, the PMG announced that he will need more money to operate the department this year. Most of it will go for payroll. If it isn't forthcoming, he avers, postal employees will stage a slow down.

For many, the difference between what they are producing now and a dead halt is a razor's edge. Interpreted that means progressively higher rates will progressively reduce income and progressively increase losses — until the P.O. merry-go-round breaks down.

Washington is talking about nibbles coming from Russia regarding another buy of U.S. wheat. Nibbles! Nuts!

Time will prove that the deal has already been signed! Why else would the administration deny that such a sale would increase food costs?

Would you believe 10 cents more for a loaf of bread when the wheat is shipped.

Your box of cereal is already nearing the dollar mark. It'll go higher when the Russian wheat deal is announced officially. However, it might not if Congress would require grain dealers to sell wheat to U.S. consumers at the same price the Russians will pay.

Without any solid knowledge to base it on, it is possible that the U.S. will receive permission from the Soviets to take pictures of the astronauts landing in Russian territory in exchange for the wheat deal. It's the same kind of dealing that goes with the Communist offer to provide the names of American soldiers in exchange for our rebuilding Vietnam!

Some of the other idiotic antics of Federal Government are listed in a new book, "THE FEDERAL RATHOLE", written by a UPI Washington reporter, Donald Lambro. While he does not concern himself with the above items, he does document the wasting of billions of dollars on projects and programs which border on the insane.

Lambro declares that "at least 1,000 areas of federal activity could be abandoned at a savings of $25 billion a year — and that would only be a beginning."

He insists, and provides convincing arguments to show that "countless programs, agencies, departments, commissions, boards, bureaus, councils and committees" that the nation cannot afford and doesn't need, could be abolished without a trace and no one would ever miss them.

The only visible result would be a huge income tax reduction for every taxpayer in the nation.

Among the money-wasting cases cited:

The National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities paid $750 of your money for a seven letter poem: "Lighght." That's not only the title, that's the poem.

$5,000 of your tax money was paid to a so-called "novelist" Erica Jong for a book — "Fear of Flying" — which is so filthy that no family-read newspaper could print it.

$113,417 of your money was spent to find out why mothers prefer children's clothing that needs no ironing. Any of our readers could have provided that information for a lot less than $113,000.

Lambro poked around and found two commissions that had been set up during WWII to protect us from the Nazis. It is doubtful that they could protect us against anything until they discover that the war ended 30 years ago.

But your tax money is used to keep them in business. But don't ask "what business?"

Congress will probably raise the spending ceiling by $46 billion this year — lifting the deficit spending to $600 billion.

What a pity! U.S. citizens find it harder to meet their cost of living while the Federal Government is pouring much of their income down "the federal rathole."

Unneeded Grocery Costs

Prices at the market place were never higher.

Profits for the conglomerates are outrageous.

Your supermarket insists that its profits are a small percentage point of its total sales.

Don't you believe it. There is no record of any supermarket official going on relief.

They often blame the increases in price on the middleman. "They're the enemy," it is said.

In the famed cartoon strip "Pogo", one character once said, "we has met the enemy and they is us." He may have been a supermarket president.

More recent evidence of supermarket malpractice is at the checkout stand. Representatives of this newspaper had this experience last week at three different markets over a two day period:

A large package of an item was 83 cents. The small was 47 cents. The small package was chosen but the charge was for the large. The tape showed 83 cents was charged.

A produce item was 28 cents. It weighed about three pounds. The checkout stand put it through at 28 cents a pound.

A 68 cent package was rung up as 86 cents. It was a transposition error, the clerk said. She cheerfully corrected it and checked the rest of the items at the patron's request. The rest of the charges was correct but it is interesting that none was underpriced.

This information is published in the interest of helping to keep consumer food bills from going higher unnecessarily. It may slow down the already long lines at checkout stands to check the charges but it may encourage more honesty at the point where the consumer meets the hard fact.

County Probes Ambulance Needs In East County

County planning is underway for the care and transport of emergency patients in the East County area.

Communities concerned include Lemon Grove and Spring Valley as well as Lakeside, Santee, La Mesa, El Cajon, Alpine, Campo and Pine Valley.

The planning committee consists of staff from the County's Office of Emergency Medical Services, physicians, nurses, hospital administrators and personnel from ambulance services in the East County.

The committee holds a public meeting Thursday, July 24 and is interested in public input. Meeting begins at 8 a.m. in the auditorium of Grossmont Hospital, 5555 Grossmont Center dr., La Mesa.

Courtesy Corps Added by DMV

Motorists visiting a Department of Motor Vehicles office beginning this week for registration or a driver's license may get more than he bargained for — like his tires checked for pressure and tread, the condition of his windshield wipers noted, and maybe even his windshield washed.

It will be the work of the DMV Courtesy Corps, 110 high school and college students hired for the summer to work in DMV offices throughout the state.

The young people between the ages of 14 and 20 are being paid $2.10 an hour in federal funds provided under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

DMV Director Herman Sillas said the Courtesy Corps is another facet of DMV's campaign to present a "newer, brighter face of government" to the 13 million drivers the agency services in California.

He said the courtesy service to motorists who visit DMV offices provides "a great opportunity to influence people's attitudes about government's role in our society, giving the people we serve a good feeling about all government, not just DMV."

The experience should also be personally rewarding and educational to the young people, too, Sillas said, "gaining for them some new insights into the role of a government agency in the important field of traffic safety."

The Courtesy Corps worker, distinctly identified by a colorful headband, will greet the driver of each car as it enters the parking area, and inform the driver of the free-service offer as described on a Safety Information Card.

In addition to offering to check tires, windshield wipers, and clean windows, the summer youth aides may help DMV clients install their license plates.

One day a week the young people will be involved in specific training programs designed and conducted by the local DMV office manager. The training will include assisting with driver license examinations and registration procedures.

New County Districts No Change for Area

Redistricting of the County supervisorial districts bears no changes for residents of Lemon Grove and Spring Valley. The localities will remain under Supervisor Dick Brown's 2nd District jurisdiction.

The only major changes in the 2nd District are the loss of much of the Sweetwater area to District 1 and territory in the Navajo-San Carlos area to District 3.

Assessor Files Annual Report

Exempt Property List Grows

Privately-owned property assessed at more than $733 million has been exempted from taxation this year according to County Assessor E. C. Williams.

The figure was released Friday in an annual report to the State Board of Equalization as required by law.

The total is an increase of $60 million over 1974.

Among the several classifications listed, Homeowners' and Veterans' exemptions together make up 80% of the total.

The single largest category is the Homeowners' Exemption. 260,175 claims for this exemption were approved this year which is an increase of 11,901 over a year ago. Property with a total assessed value exemption of more than 456 million dollars was included in this category which has shown an increase of 5 per cent over 1974.

Veterans' Claims Decrease

789 Veterans' Exemption claims were approved for 1975 which is down 578 from the 1,367 approved last year. In comparison, 66,000 Veterans' Exemptions were granted in 1965. The major contributor to the rapid decrease in this exemption since 1968 was the passage that year of the Homeowners' Exemption legislation. With the $1,750 assessed value exemption available with the Homeowners' Exemption, the veteran has found it to his advantage to switch from the Veterans' Exemption which exempts only $1,000 of assessed value.

Also, a veteran can only receive one of these exemptions on the same property.

Disabled Claims Grow

A significant increase in Disabled Veterans' Exemptions, from 139 in 1974 to 514 this year, has resulted from the passage of Proposition 8 last November. This legislation broadened this exemption to include veterans, as certified by the Veterans Administration, who have a 100 per cent service connected disability rating. It provides an eligible veteran, or veteran's widow with a $10,000 assessed value exemption.

Contrary to the loss of local tax revenue brought about by the exemption applied to the veteran's property, the Homeowners' Exemption legislation requires the State of California to reimburse the County for the funds lost by granting these exemptions.

Churches, Schools, Hospitals

Exemptions for churches, colleges, hospitals, private and parochial schools, retirement homes and various charitable organizations totalled more than $143 million in assessed value. This is an increase of 16.3% over last year. Figures available in the Assessor's office show that in the last 5 years the valuation of property included in these exemption categories increased by 65.2%.

Church exemptions have shown a significant growth in the last 5 years with additional property in excess of $16 million of assessed value, or a 58% increase. In 1961 there were 715 churches in San Diego. Today, over 1,250 churches are listed on the Assessor's tax-exempt rolls.

BROADWAY CHANGES — Dick and Judy Holst packed up flowers and vases and are moving their Lemon Grove Florist three doors west to 7951 Broadway this week. Nearby the area surrounded by Broadway, Kempf st. and Golden ave. is bustling with construction as the new Lemon Grove Center building project gets underway. The shopping complex will include an Express Lane food store and a new location for the Little Scandia restaurant. Plans call for a Pizza Hut to occupy space presently used by the Scandia. Next to the florist is John's Cattlecall food market which opened three weeks ago.

$810 Receipts Missing From Gas Station Safe

$810 in receipts was missing from the drop safe of the Pit Stop, a self-serve gasoline station at 7081 Broadway in Lemon Grove.

Karen Louise Wyse, of 8726 Troy st., Spring Valley, in charge of the station, told sheriff's deputies on July 9 that the money had apparently been taken sometime during a 3-day period. She said she checked the receipt envelopes from day to day but when she attempted to reconcile the envelopes with the contents, the $810 shortage showed up.

USDA introduced a new food stamp series — $2, $5, and $10 — on March 1 with a deadline of June 30 for spending old series food stamps at authorized retail food store and meal services. The deadline was extended to allow recipients who were issued old coupons in March and April and May adequate time to use them. Grocers and meal services can redeem old coupons at commercial banks through September 30.

Cameras, Stereo Taken by Burglar

Wayne A. Johnson, a fireman of 8826 Lance st., Spring Valley, reported to sheriff's deputies on July 8 about 5 p.m. that someone used a screwdriver to open a bedroom window and ransacked his house while he was on vacation.

A parital list of the loot includes two cameras, radio, stereo equipment, tape decks, a calculator, binoculars, and four $20 bills.

He estimated his loss to be about $600.

Two Ripoffs Made at L.G. Freight Station

The Freight Station, a beer bar at 3645 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove, is getting a habit.

Twice in two weeks the bar has been ripped off.

On July 12, between 2 and 10 a.m., someone broke open the south window of the establishment and took $22.50 in loose change, Bobby Joe Bookout, co-owner said.

On July 15, shortly after midnight, two men, both wearing ski masks and tennis shoes, used a single barrel shotgun to rob the place.

"Everyone on the floor," shouted one of the two men but nobody paid attention to him. When he stuck the gun in the back of one of the patrons — Dallas L. Nave, a laborer, of 7679 Lemon ave., Lemon Grove, Bookout became concerned and is reported to have said, "Hey, you better do what he says."

As the six patrons got to the floor, some of them squatting, one robber demanded of Bookout that he "open that cash drawer and put all the money in a bag."

Bookout did it and the robbers fled. Witnesses agreed that the robbers were male, 15-17 years of age and 150-160 pounds.

One, said Bookout, knew more about the place than a stranger would.

When the loss was totaled it came to $228.

Burning Grass Keeps Grove Firemen Busy

Grass fires, most of them deliberately set, made the beginning of July a busy time for fire fighters in the Lemon Grove Fire Department.

In the first week the department responded to five separate calls for grass fires. Two on July 1 occurred in the 1500 block of Osage st. and in the 6600 block of McArthur, according to fire station records.

Fireworks ignited brush at 2031 Berry st. on the July 4 holiday. No loss or injury was reported at the site.

Two more brush fires, probably started by children, were doused by the department on July 5 along the tracks near San Altos pl. and at 1515 Skyline dr.

A trash fire at 3180 Massachusetts ave. July 7 did an estimated $20 damage.

Spring Valley Fire Department reported no serious blazes during the first week of July.

Things quieted down considerably in Lemon Grove's fire station after the holiday weekend. Only one grass blaze was reported last week, a small incendiary fire at 69th and Mt. Vernon which was extinguished without loss.

Spring Valley reported seven minor grass fires from July 7 to press time and one structural fire.

A two-story structure at 260 Worthington st., broke out at 6:45 p.m. Saturday and did an estimated $1,750 damage. Tissue-covered hangers near a furnace pilot was determined the cause.

The home is owned by Artis and Paula Williams.

Thief's Loot Is Nearly $2,000

Ronald Thomas Morgan, a body shop owner who lives at 7464 Lemon ave., Lemon Grove, told sheriff's deputies that when he returned home about 7:45 p.m. July 9, he discovered that many of his belongings were gone.

Among the missing items were several watches, a color teevee, stereo equipment, rings, a clock and a Remington rifle with scope.

The thief entered through a rear patio door then broke the glass of the kitchen door to get into the house. The loss, he says, is more than $1,900. He named two suspects.

Launch Site Chosen For Illegal Rockets

Residents in the neighborhood of Lemon Grove's Palm Junior High school who hear the sizzle and whoosh of a jet powered projectile or see a tiny figure dropping to earth in a pint-size parachute need not fear that alien creatures have posed an invasion, although there might be due cause for concern about safety.

The flying ojbect can probably be identified as a toy rocket just launched on the school grounds.

The mail order toys, while supplying thrills for the children who man their own mission control, have failed to launch any enthusiasm in the hearts of local fire officials.

The rocket toys have grown in popularity among children, despite the fact that, like all other fire works, they are illegal unless set off at an officially sanctioned location by authorized personnel. The standard rocket will blast several feet into the air and parachute back to earth.

Stores in the county are prohibited from selling the projectiles, leading Lemon Grove Fire Chief Fred Dixon to conclude that youths are sending away for them. Major supplier, he said, is a manufacturer in Colorado.

The fire department sent a letter last week to Lemon Grove School officials requesting that they make available the playground at Palm Jr. High as an approved site for launching the rockets.

The matter was introduced to the school board at its meeting last week. Superintendent Robert Sutton has given temporary approval of the site for rocket launchings while the issue is studied by the trustees.

Even though the site has been approved, Chief Dixon cautions that, just like other forms of fireworks, firing of the rockets without official authorization from the fire department, is a violation of the fire codes. All such launchings must be under adult supervision, as well, to stay within the bounds of the law.

The metropolitan area of San Diego registered a Consumer Price Index increase of 1.0 per cent between February and May, according to figures listed in the latest edition of San Diego Economic Bulletin, a monthly publication of the Economic Research Bureau of San Diego.

The quarterly increase is the smallest recorded since the third quarter of 1971. The all-item C.P.I. now stands at a new high of 158.8, an increase of 9.4 per cent over a year ago. All major consumer categories rose.

Food prices climbed .1 per cent in that quarter and are up a total of 8.6 per cent from a year ago. Rises of 6.3 per cent in meats and poultry of .1 per cent in fruits and vegetables were the major cause for the increase.

Facts on Fluoridation

Fluoride is a natural substance which is present, at least to a limited extent, in all drinking water and in many foods. Some communities have found that their drinking water is naturally endowed with generous amounts of fluoride, and it has been observed that in those communities there is a great deal less tooth decay than in communities where only traces of fluoride are present.

Rumors Untrue

On the basis of these observations, health authorities, after years of careful study, have concluded that fluoride added to the water supply, in the very controlled amounts of one part fluoride to one million parts water, can bring about a very pronounced reduction in tooth decay. Accordingly, many cities throughout the country have instituted municipal programs of water fluoridation with excellent results.

As is true of many programs involving the action of public bodies, these fluoridation programs have stirred up a great deal of controversy, very little of it based on scientific understanding. As the result, fluoridation of water is not yet as widespread as its potential health benefits would warrent, and many misinformed people have circulated rumors which have surrounded the issue of water fluoridation with unfounded fears.

It is true that water fluoridation is not a cure-all for all dental problems. No one has ever claimed that it was. It does not take the place of daily brushing of the teeth nor does it eliminate the advisability of periodic care by a dentist. It does not replace the protection provided by a properly balanced diet. But it does reduce by about 60 per cent the occurrence of decay in teeth — a health problem that troubles about 95 per cent of the total population in this country.

Of the many objections which have been raised against fluoridation, the only one which has been substantiated scientifically is the claim that high concentrations of fluoride (much higher than the recommended proportion) sometimes leaves stains on the teeth. All other objections seem to be based on either misunderstanding or hysteria.

To examine some of the widely circulated contents:

Is fluoride harmful to health? Its opponents have linked its use to every imaginable health disorder: cancer, heart disease, blood disorders, arthiritis, blindness — to name only a few. Studies over long periods of time comparing the health records of populations drinking flouridated water with those drinking non-fluoridated water reveal that not one single disease occurs more frequently in one group than in the other.

Can you be poisoned by fluoride? Almost any chemical substance, taken in excessive amounts, can poison you. In order to take in enough fluoride to poison you, it would be necessary for you to drink more water in a day than you could conceivably cope with. In its recommended concentration, flouride does not affect the taste, smell or appearance of water and has absolutely no toxic effects.

Does the addition of fluoride contaminate the purity of the water? There is really no such thing as "pure" water. Every city water system treats drinking water with a number of chemicals, none of which is detected by the consumer and none of which is dangerous.

Is water fluoridation expensive? It is estimated that it costs about 10 cents per person per year. The average citizen pays less for the protection of fluoridation during his total lifetime than the cost of filling or extracting a single tooth.

Is water fluoridation part of a sinister conspiracy? Water fluoridation is a health measure, not a political plot. It has been preposterously linked by its opponents with a wide variety of political, racial and religious organizations. The only organized support for flouridation comes from reputable health organizations, not from irresponsible conspirators.

Does water fluoridation constitute governmental interference with individual health? Fluoridation is not compulsory treatment of an existing disorder. Its aim is solely that of prevention. It is an appropriate as a public health activity as other preventive measures — the control of contagious disease, for example.

Are there any alternatives to the public administration of fluoride? Yes, fluoride can be applied directly to the teeth or it can be obtained through bottled water.

Lewis Telethon Set For August 1

This year 193 television stations have signed on to air the 10th annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). "It is the largest number of stations ever assembled for a single humanitarian fund-raising effort," according to Ralph Hodges, President of San Diego-Imperial Chapter. Last year 174 stations broadcast the Labor Day marathon spectacular.

"The stations cover the entire country — the continental U. S., Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and Guam" Hodges said. "Last year, more than 75 million Americans saw the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon, contributing more than $16 million for MDA's research and patient services programs, for a telethon record."

In San Diego county area, MDA maintains the MDA Clinic at Children's Hospital, Summer Camps for dystrophic children and adults, and research grants to scientists at UCSD and the Salk Institute.

The 1975 20-hour Labor Day Telethon will originate from the Hotel Sahara Space Center in Las Vegas. Lewis and his "anchorman" Ed McMahon will begin the supershow at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, August 31, and carry on through Monday, September 1.

In the San Diego area, the telethon will be broadcast on KGTV 10.

Symphony Matinees Add to Orchestra's Fall Line-up

Designed especially for the convenience of senior citizens, the San Diego symphony has announced a new Sunday matinee concert series with performances beginning at 2:30 p.m. at the Civic Theatre. Prices for the four-concert Winter Celebrity Series range from $8 to $13.

Matinee Season ticketholders will have priority in ordering tickets to the special Arthur Rubinstein concert on October 31, according to Robert Christian, symphony general manager.

4 Shows

In a tribute to our nation's Bicentennial, Shamu, famed two-ton killer whale, plunges backward into history and emerges as a dandy "Yankee Doodle Whale." Shamu dazzles the audience with back flips, high jumps, water hurdles and the only-at-Sea World ride-jump. Shamu adds to his ever-increasing repertoire of behaviors a new tailwalk ride during the show.

Teams of bottle-nosed dolphins and their trainers compete in "Olympic Games" in the exciting new "Wet World of Sports" show. Audiences are busy keeping an eye on the scoreboard and the fantastic dolphin behaviors including tailwalks, fire hoop, broad jumps, back flips and the special double Roman ride.

CALPIRG Critical of Nursing Home Care

The California Public Interest Research Group (CALPIRG) has published a 95-page report on San Diego County's long term nursing facilities.

Entitled, "Would You Call This Home?," the report is an in-depth analysis of the state of nursing home care in San Diego County. Alan Kremen, a UCSD junior and student coordinator of the project, noted that "the quality of care in nursing homes has recently become a matter of a great deal of nationwide concern. Our project attemped to look at all aspects of provision of this care, to put the problems into perspective, and to sort out fact from fiction," regarding San Diego's over 70 long-term care facilities.

In addition, the report deals with recommendations for correction of some of the problems uncovered during the five-month investigation.

The CALPIRG study was aided by personnel from the offices of two local legislators — Supervisor Jack Walsh and Assemblyman Bob Wilson.

"We utilized every available source in our research including State Health Department inspection reports, governmental regulations, civil and criminal litigation, field visits to homes and legislators, interviews with patients, administrators, staff, families of patients, and other concerned persons," staff member Steve Brault said.

CALPIRG's major findings were:

(1) While most homes appeared to be making sincere attempts to provide good care for their residents, "the level of care, attention and dignity received by patients in most homes remains below an acceptable level. In addition, a few homes continue to deliver very poor care and, at present, the system shows no signs of bringing these facilities up to par."

(2) The key regulatory bodies concerned with nursing homes have failed in their public responsibility.

(3) Nurses and nurse's aides are inadequately trained in gerontology and patient care, and are grossly underpaid.

(4) The current Medi-Cal reimbursement rate of $17.62 per diem per patient "points out a shameful abuse of the public trust toward our elderly."

CALPIRG makes twenty-two recommendations. Some were . . .

For the State Legislature:

— Require training and certification in geriatric care for all nurse aides in nursing homes.

— Require nursing homes to provide family members with information regarding filing of complaints or other problems.

— Take decisive action to end widespread "kickbacks" in the nursing home industry.

For the State Department of Health:

— Re-evaluate procedures for license revocation and contact renepal to reflect concern for the rights of patients as well as owners.

— Amend the inspection process to provide for private interviews with nursing homes patients "in order to find out about what really is happening inside the home."

— Issue citations to physicians who violate regulations, not just the nursing home, and keep the record of such actions in a public file.

For Nursing home administrators:

— Make a greater effort to involve members of the public in volunteers activities inside the nursing homes.

— "Recognize that all nursing home residents have the right to function at their highest level regardless of their long-term rehabilitation potential."

Copies of the report are available for $1 from the CALPIRG office at 621 Fourth ave., Rm. 207. Mail orders should include 60 cents postage and handling charge.

Hand Wash, Air Dry Conserves Energy

Two energy saving suggestions from the San Diego Office of Emergency Services are worthy of note.

The Office recommends that the best thing to do with a few dirty dishes is to break down and wash them by hand in a sink or dish pan, instead of using your automatic dishwasher. You'll use less water and save energy, too.

Electricity can also be saved when using your dishwasher by allowing the dishes to air dry. After the final rinse cycle, turn off your dishwasher, open the door and let the dishes stand until they are drained and dry.

Children Learn Poison Dangers From Puppets

Cindy Climber, Tommy Toddler, and Terra Turtle are teaching the basics of poison prevention to English and Spanish-speaking San Diego County pre-schoolers in a program sponsored by the Poison Information Center at University Hospital.

The three are puppet characters in a show performed by 12 volunteers from Clairemont Junior Women's Club. Since May, when the program began, 3,116 children aged one to five have been educated as well as entertained by the puppets. The volunteers have traveled more than 500 miles throughout the county to present the poison show.

Expansion of the program is now underway, according to Pam Brown, Clairemont Juniors representative. Mrs. Brown and her committee are currently conducting workshops to teach women from 11 other clubs how to prepare and execute the show in other areas including Lemon Grove.

Interested groups or schools in any area can schedule the 15 minute program by phoning Dee Eason, Health Educator, at the Poison Information Center. Children viewing the puppet show receive a free poison prevention coloring book.

Ground Meat Crust for 15 Min. Pizza

For fanatics who crave the pizza tastes, here's a new version. "'No Dough" pizza, ready in about 15 minutes, is a cook's dream. And it's easy on the budget. The ground beef "crust" —economically enxtended with oats and seasoned with oregano— broils done. "No Dough" is then popped into the oven just long enough to heat the tomato sauce topping and melt the tidy triangles of Mozzarella cheese.

1/3 cup chopped onion
1 teas. salt
1/4 teas. oregano
1/4 teas. pepper
1 egg
1 8-oz. can tomato tauce
1 6-oz. pkg. sliced Mozzarella cheese, cut into triangles

Combine ground beef, oats, onion, salt, oregano, pepper, egg and half of tomato sauce (reserve remaining sauce for topping). Press meat mixture evenly into bottom of a 12-inch circle on a cookie sheet. Broil about 5 inches from source of heat about 7 minutes. Spread with remaining sauce and top with cheese triangles; bake until cheese is melted, about one minute. If desired, sprinkle lightly with paprika to garish.

Baseball Marks May Fall

It probably would take an in-depth report to satisfy everyone on the reasons why baseball attendance continues to travel at a record pace.

Interest in the intriguing divisional races certainly would be near the top of any list.

Another reason has to be the superstar performances being turned in at an impressive pace. The season hasn't event reached the halfway point, but records — some of them all-time marks — have been tumbling left and right. There isn't any reason to expect a letup, either.

Consider some of the happenings so far in 1975:

Hank Aaron, whose name already was deeply etched in the record books, heads an impressive list that also includes Nolan Ryan, Mickey Lolich, Willie McCovey, Bobby Bonds, Amos Otis and rookie sensation Fred Lynn.

Aaron, the all-time home run leader with 740, has added the major league record for most RBI in a career to his collection, surpassing Babe Ruth's 2,209 with 2,235 through June 25. He also has moved up to No. 2, past Stan Musial, on the career hit list. His 3,653 hits trail only Ty Cobb's 4,191.

Not Hitters

Baseball's most celebrated performer in 1975, Ryan reached the high point of his career on the first day of June, hurling his fourth no-hitter. The gem equalled Sandy Koufax's major league record. The California flame-thrower, with 121 strikeouts, is also attempting to become the first pitcher ever to strike out 300 or more batters in four consecutive seasons.

Another standout American League hurler, Lolich put himself into some pretty classy company becoming the No. 1 lefthanded strikeout hurler in history. The 13-year Detroit veteran, who has upped his win total to 202 to become the Tigers' winningest lefthander ever, surpassed Warren Spahn (2,583) to gain the lefty top spot and move into fifth place on the all-time strikeout list. Only Walter Johnson (3,508), Bob Gibson (3,097), Jim Bunning (2,855), and Cy Young (2,819) struck out more batters than Lolich (2,598).

McCovey Ties Aaron

McCovey, now with San Diego, tied Hank Aaron at 16 for the National League career leadership in grand slam home runs. Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees set the major league record of 23. Jimmie Foxx and Ted Williams had 17 apiece while Babe Ruth had 16.

Bonds set a major league standard for home runs leading off games. He has hit two this year as a New York Yankee, surpassing the mark of 28 he shared with Eddie Yost.

While Bonds and McCovey entered the record book with their power, Otis did it with his speed. The Kansas City outfielder tied a 63-year-old American League record held by Hall of Famer Eddie Collins by stealing seven bases in two consecutive games. The major league mark is eight, set in 1894 by Walter Wilmot of Chicago in the National League.

A former Southern California All-American, Lynn put his name into the books June 19 in Detroit when he hit three home runs, a triple, a single and drove in 10 runs. The Boston outfielder's marks include: major league rookie record for most total bases in a nine-inning game (16); a share of the American League total base mark and a share of the major league rookie record for most RBI's in a game.

400 Homers

Billy Williams, now on the World Champion Oakland A's, reached a milestone earlier this season. He smashed his 400th career homer to become only the 16th player in history to hit that many.

While the individual records continue to be set, attendance marks also have been established. Major league baseball reached the 10-million mark this month on the earliest date ever and the Los Angeles Dodgers hit the 1,000,000 mark in their 27th home date, earlier than any other club in history.

Other Records

A number of other records and milestones could be added to this list before '75 draws to a close. Here are some of them, with statistics thru June 25:

— Rod Carew is within reach of his fourth consecutive batting title. Only Ty Cobb, Rogers Hornsby, and Honus Wagner have accomplished the feat.

— Frank Robinson is narrowing the margins to his 600th home run and 3,000th hit. He is now 79 away in hits and 18 away in home runs. Eight of his hits in '75 have been homers.

— Harmon Killebrew, with nine homers this season and fifth on the all-time list is now at 568; only 32 away from the 600 mark.

— Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris has reached the 500-mark (501) in stolen bases and is presently eighth on the all-time modern chart, which includes base thieves since 1901. Six more and Campy will replace Luis Aparicio in the seventh position. Campy is No. 2 behind Lou Brock (778) among active base-stealers.

— Tom Seaver is trying to become the first pitcher in major league annals to strike out at least 200 batters in eight consecutive seasons. He needs only 99 to do it.

— Cincinnati's Johnny Bench has 61 runs batted in, and has a shot at breaking his personal high of 148 in 1970. If he does, it will be the highest total since Tommy Davis drove in 153 runs in 1962.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

You can't put your finger on it, but it seems that somehow in-the-classroom education is taking a beating. And the high school athletic program is involved from both ends.

Most of the problems stem from money. Education is caught between the double edged blade of rising costs, inflation and declining enrollments.

Time magazine (July 7) covered the broad issues of the teacher drop out problem, with a piece that should panic teaching majors in colleges and universities across the country.

Oakland, Calif. schools face a $4 million deficit this coming school year and teachers are being cut by the car load. Over the Bay bridge in San Francisco, a rock promoter named Bill Graham had to stage a concert to fund the city school's spring athletic program. There is no money for the coming season. As it is, 100 San Francisco teachers are to be axed.

And, as always, things get worse as you head east. New York city, for instance, faces an education cut of $270 million. Classes will level out at 40 students per teacher and the best guess is school violence will go up accordingly.

St. Louis is wiping out its athletic program. And in addition to the $200,000 athletic budget being eliminated, some 411 non-teaching jobs are gone.

Athletic programs are among the first to go when the price pinch hits a school district. It stands to reason the more money spent on sports, special programs or summer sessions, the more the average kids are hurt during regular school sessions. And some classes are so big some places, it takes half the class time just to answer the roll.

And that brings us to San Diego, city and county, where the ego and inexpertness of school authorities bring new meaning to the word mediocrity.

On the one hand, there is the strange case of Vista, where the desire for a winning football team changed the entire school structure.

When Vista outgrew its old high school, a second one wasn't added. Oh, no. That would mean two football teams of lesser power to play arch rival Oceanside. A new, larger, single high school was constructed where a single, high-powered gridiron effort could carry the Vista banner into championship play. (Which was exactly what they did.)

The old Vista high school was turned into a junior high. And even a larger student body wasn't apparently enough for the win-at-any-price Vista football folk.

Charges were recently made by a former Vista Associated Student Body president of alleged misuse of ASB funds by the school's football coach and athletic director. The Vista School Board is looking into the matter, but with the hindsite of Watergate and official whitewashing, it would probably be better investigated by the County Grand Jury.

Unfortunately, not even the Grand Jury could help the San Diego City athletic problems. Their board members are suffering from near terminal stupidity. They would be overpaid at $1 a year.

You remember the San Diego City School Board? They're the ones that jumped on the energy crisis last year, and a scrimmage between Mesa College students beered up to the loud mouth level, and banned Friday night football in the name of good clean education.

Even before girls were demanding part of the action, high school athletic budgets were trimmed pretty close. Money for athletics comes from ASB funds, football and basketball gate receipts, and a share of CIF gate receipts for participating schools in basketball and football playoffs.

Add nine girl's CIF level sports to the old total and funding falls way short of even what a school used to generate.

Enter the San Diego School Board and you have sheer calamity. They knocked off night football and basketball, wiping out $50,000 of self generated funds. And in a time of leaping costs and teacher cut backs, they replaced the self-generated money with tax dollars. Some $48,000 to be exact.

Look at it another way, school authorities blew four teacher's jobs by their inexpertness. And that's almost criminal.

Of course, things could change with the new school board elections coming up this fall. Some candidates will undoubtedly and firmly straddle the fence on athletics, spending and taxes. It sure makes you wonder which candidates teacher groups endorse. And not just in Vista and San Diego, either, but throughout the entire county.

One thing sure, area voters don't have to look very far for improper examples. And you thought school sports was kid stuff.

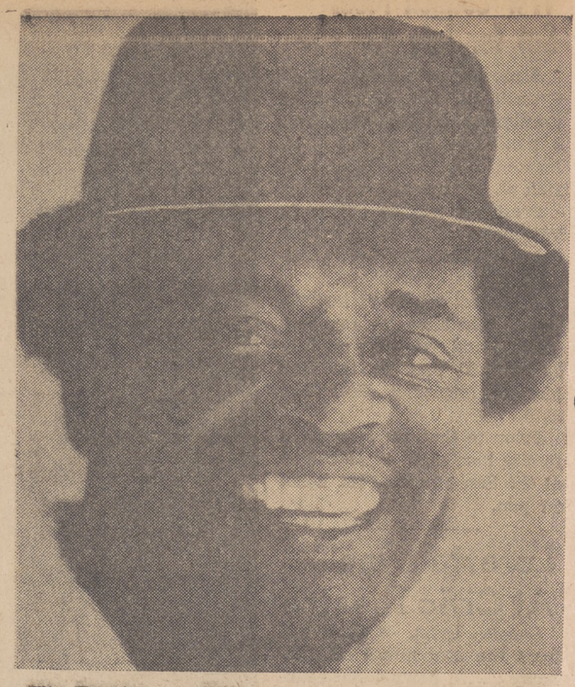
State Dog Racers to Start Legal Wagering Petition

Golden State Greyhound Assn. has chosen San Diego to kick-off its petition drive to legalize pari-mutuel wagering on greyhound racing in California.

The drive starts with a luncheon at Vacation Village Convention Center in Mission Bay at noon Saturday, August 9.

Assemblyman Leon Ralph, L.A., Chairman of the Rules Committee, and Assemblyman Bob Wilson, La Mesa, Chairman of the Governmental Organization Committee will be present.

Ralph authored Assembly Bill 455 which would have legalized the sport in California but it lost 5 votes to 4 in Wilson's Committee recently.



Tito Fuentes . . . More Hitting . . . more double plays

Fuentes Trade Good for Padres

When the San Diego Padres acquired veteran second baseman Tito Fuentes from the San Francisco Giants during the winter, the club readily pointed out areas in which Tito could help.

More double plays. More experience in the infield. A teacher for shortstop Enzo Hernandez. These were just some of the thoughts that came to mind. Well, with the season roughly half over, the native of Cuba has done nothing to quell the enthusiasm originally put forth by the Padres.

"We knew Tito was going to be a good influence on the ball club when we got him," smiled manager John McNamara. "I've always been fond of him and I knew what he could do for us.

"Maybe one of his biggest contributions so far has been his work with Enzo and turning the double play with him. Thus far we've come up with more double plays at this stage of the season than in any other year of the club's existence," continued McNamara.

Throughout the season, the Padres have been running at a pace of more than one double play per game. This compares more than favorably to last season's final total of 126 and the club record of 159 in 1970.

Hitting Good

The Padres have also been getting good hitting support from the self-styled "hot dog" as Tito is right around his career average of .262.

"I'm not the type of player who will hit for a high average," remarked the 31-year-old Fuentes. "I'm more of a punch-type of hitter who's just trying to make contact and get on base. Most of my major league season averages have been between .260 and .275."

Being the type of hitter he is, the Padres have no worries of him ever dipping into a prolonged slump at the plate and being a detriment in the batting order.

His longest hitless streak, in fact, thus far has been a mere three games in early May while, on the other hand, he's put together consecutive hitting strings of eight and 10 straight games.

There was some concern when he joined the club about his physical status as he had been hampered last season with some back problems, but the fears have been for naught as he played in 68 of the club's first 72 contests.

Cancha Club Is New at Jai Alai

TIJUANA — The plush new Cancha Club at Tijuana's historic Jai Alai Fronton is now open, general manager Mariano Escobedo said today.

"This new section is patterned along the lines of the private turf clubs at Thoroughbred racetracks," Escebedo said. "It looks like the public is taking to it well.

"Dining and wagering are a lot more comfortable in the Cancha Club."

Cancha is the Spanish word for the playing court. The Cancha Club has 140 seats, all of them cushioned and theater-type. Walls are paneled in wood and the floor is carpeted.

Patrons wishing to sit in this section may purchase a ticket for it at the regular admission window. The cost is slightly higher than for reserved seating. A receptionist designates the patron's seat.

Co-owners Frank Goldberg and Bud Fischer have many business matters to attend to in the formation of the new franchise.

"We have to hire a front office, a coach and acquire players that can make this club a winner, said Goldberg.

"We plan to buy and trade for quality players. We have been contacting all of the teams in the league to see which players are available."

"Another supply of players can come from unsigned draft choices," continued Goldberg. "On September 10 all draft choices not signed can be talked to by other teams. In effect, they become free agents," said Goldberg.

Fischer and Goldberg have already made their first decision in their quest for front office personnel.

Breakers Host Bangers Friday In IVA Play

League-leading San Diego Breakers take on the Southern California Bangers for the third time this season Friday at the Sports Arena. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Bangers have yet to win over Coach Suwara's team and are tied for the International Volleyball Assn. cellar with the El Paso-Juarez Sol.

The Breakers, however, are not taking the Bangers too lightly with its 4-7 record. The visitors are regarded as dangerous such as they were a few games ago when they knocked the Sol right out of their home arena — El Paso Coliseum, in three straight matches.

Led by Toshi Toyoda, one of the most exciting defenders in pro ranks, the Bangers are "due" and the game should prove to be an exciting one.

Former All-American at UCLA and one of Japan's top-notch players, Toyoda will be assisted by two fine front line-row players in Larry Vocke and John Herron.

Lujan Puts Unbeaten Record On Line at Coliseum Friday

Super-teenager Manny Lujan, yet to be beaten in a ring battle, will try to keep it that way Friday night when he opposes veteran Richie Alvarado of Las Vegas in a scheduled 10-rounder at the Coliseum.

A winner of 11 straight bouts and the Los Angeles Golden Gloves crown as an amateur, the 19-year old Lujan has notched an even 20 victories in the pro ranks. A controversial draw in February against highly regarded Julio Leal accounts for the only nick on his otherwise perfect record.

"Right after this fight (with Alvarado) I want to settle the score with Leal," says Manny, currently the seventh ranked featherweight in North America. "Julio looked good when he stopped Valente Vera in Tijuana last week. but I intend to prove that I'm the better man."

Alvarado, an experienced contender sporting a career mark of 49-10-2, has the ability and cunning to give Lujan a rough evening. He is handled by Marv Jenson, who managed former world middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

Last Week

It may have been the heat. It may have been the television camera.

It may have been that Art Hafey's handlers left his mouthpiece at home and he had to send someone to his Pacific Beach home to retrieve it — and just in time for his ring engagement with Alberto Reyes, California State Champion.

But, whatever the reason, Art Hafey, San Diego's world rated No. 2 featherweight contender was not his usual, sharp self Friday night at the Coliseum but he won it.

Halfway through the 10-round contest, the match was even. Then Hafey produced a couple of sterling rounds landings solid rights and lefts then tired. In the final round Hafey uncorked several flurries and Reyes was in trouble. He buckled but did not go down.

Unanimous Decision

Hafey lacked his usual sharpness and missed constantly. But in the end, Hafey prevailed and won a unanimous decision. Officials saw it 8-2; 62 and 7-3. The entire fight was televised over Highes Network which feeds Cable 2 locally. The fight was blacked out in the San Diego area.

In other bouts Cole St. John knocked out Ernie Pope at 1:32 of the first round of a five round middleweight fracas. It was St. John's second one-round KO in a row.

Roy Hernandez won a TKO decision after decking Paul Tiebel in the first, third and fifth round of a five-round featherweight bout. The referee stopped the action at 1:10 of the fifth.

A split decision was given to Carmen Cruz over Armando Cordova in a six-round semi-main welterweight bout.

Workshop Tours Area With Comedy Troupes

Beaches and parks will be the sites for outrageous comedy beginning July 25 when two traveling comedy shows from the University of California, San Diego go on the road in San Diego.

The free shows will be presented at 10 outdoor locations through Aug. 3 by students in UCSD's summer comedy workshop.

Slapstick, puns, gags, pratfalls and raucous comedy will be featured in the two original shows, "Pandemonium in Provolone" and "Much Ado About Peaches."

The players will act out their zany comedy of mix-ups and tricks in costumes combining period and contemporary dress.

Both productions are based on improvisation and each will be performed on a platform stage on a flatbed truck.

This is the second year for the traveling comedy shows and the comedy workshop which is offered in UCSD's Summer Session. Some 22 theater students from across the country make up this year's company in the 6-week intensive training course.

The performances begin on the UCSD campus Wednesday with a presentation by the Commedia group at 12:30 p.m. on the Revelle College Plaza and one by the Comic Melodrama troupe at the same time on the Muir College Plaza. The two groups will switch locations the next day with performances also at 12:30 p.m.

Home Looted During Visit to Neighbor

Hedy Elizabeth Kelly, of 1475 San Altos st., Lemon Grove, returned home about 10 p.m. on July 7 from visiting with neighbors across the street and learned that her home had been burglarized during her visit.

The thief stole only from the bedroom taking two portable television sets, two boxes of jewelry, a box of valuable old coins and $300 in cash.

Apparently, the intruder had used a key to get in since there was no sign of forced entry and the house was locked.

L. Van Deerlin Condemns FCC Cable Blackout Rule

A new Federal Communications Commission rule will blackout some sports events in some cable television households in the San Diego area.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, called the FCC rulemaking "a classic example of mindless bureaucracy infringing on the rights of ordinary citizens."

The FCC has approved in principle a so-called "same game" rule for cable TV systems. Under the proposal, if a team is playing at home and the game is denied local television stations, CATV systems will not be allowed to import the signal of any distant station while it is televising the same game.

The regulation, however, will not apply to signals carried by cable systems before March 31, 1972, grandfathering provision. Donald O. Williams, vice-president and general manager of Mission Cable TV, told Van Deerlin about 40,000 of Mission Cable's San Diego area subscribers will lose some sports programming because of the new rule, while another 75,000 subscribers will be protected by the grandfather clause.

Some Can Watch

"In some cases, people will be able to watch a game denied to others on the same block," Van Deerlin said. "It all depends on whether you were lucky enough to sign up for Cable TV before March 31, 1972."

The new rule is scheduled for adoption 30 days after its publication in the Federal Register, expected shortly.

Van Deerlin said it is too late for Congress to block the rule.

"The unfairness and basic illogic of the rule do point up the need for some Congressional direction in setting policies for the growth and regulation of cable television," he said.

The new rule was three years in preparation, with cablecasters, conventional broadcasters and professional sports interests contributing conflicting opinions.

Real Estate Firm Upgrades Staff

Three promotions were announced last week by SGS Real Estate Co., Lemon Grove.

Lee Curtis of Spring Valley will manage the Lemon Grove office at 8100 Broadway; Don Doyle of Spring Valley will manage the Spring Valley office at 409 Sweetwater rd., and Betty Cavenaile will manage the San Diego office at 5211 Broadway.

The positions opened when Joe Garzanelli of San Diego was promoted to executive coordinator and Pete Corrao became District One manager. The latter two promotions came in June, according to John Stenbeck, chairman of SGS Real Estate Co.

SDG&E Asks Coastal Zone Delay; Awaits PUC Permit

San Diego Gas & Electric Company has asked the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission (CZCC) to delay action on Encina power plant's proposed Unit 5.

The company appealed to the state commission in April protesting against the San Diego Regional Commission's denial of a permit for construction of Encina 5. The State Commission was scheduled to consider the appeal Wednesday.

PUC First

SDG&E requested the delay to allow time for the California Public Utilities Commission to act first and render a decision on the utility's' request for a certificate of convenience and necessity for the new unit. Permits are required from both commissions.

The company had asked for the PUC action in June, but was told by the PUC that it would not be possible to issue a decision prior to the scheduled decision of the CZCC.

At that time, however, the PUC staff said that in its opinion, the PUC should determine the resources needed to meet customer requirements and that the coastal zone commission should defer to it on that issue.

Hearings

Subsequently, the PUC decided to reopen hearings on Encina 5. In view of those developments, the company said it would be prudent to wait for the PUC's decision regarding the need for the plant. The decision would also be helpful to the CZCC in making its decision, the company said.

The one-day PUC hearing is scheduled for Monday.

Rain Total 14.39 -Up 5.75 Inches

Well, it was a pretty good year and now it's over.

It produced 14.39 inches of rain.

The year before the total was 8.64.

So far this year there has been no rain at all.

Rain years end on June 30. That's a heck of a date for a year's end. But rain days are just as bad. They end at 5 p.m.

Any rain falling between 5 p.m. and midnight goes on the next day's production.

Rainfall totals are kept at the fire houses in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley. California rainfalls being as they are, can produce a heavy squall in one section of town and record dry and sunshine in another.

It's just another interesting spectacle of the California scene.

And it also explains why a report will be released in early fall listing the season's rainfall at something like .02 of an inch.

It also suggests there is a reason for great variances in rainfall totals between Lindbergh Field and Lemon Grove and Spring Valley.

CdO Resident Is Gold Loser

The front door of Lynn F. Atnip's home at 3451 Calavo dr., in Casa de Oro had been kicked open when he got there.

Taken by the marauder were these items:

Tape deck, gold watch, gold band ring, men's gold ring, 12 gauge shotgun, electric calculator and a S&W .32 special revolver.

The loss was reported to sheriff's deputies about 6 p.m. June 29.

Beer Sales Steady

Despite a depressed economy, beer sales in California during the first six months of 1975 were up slightly from the same pace of a year ago.

Geo. W. Ososke, vice president and Western District director of the United States Brewers Assn., said Californians consumed 7.4 million barrels in 1975 compared with 7.3 million barrels a year ago.

Asthma Students Need Special Care, Cal. Med. Urges

Because respiratory and allergic problems affect one of every seven school-age children, schools should give special consideration to these children's health needs, according to a California medical expert.

Asthma is the most common chronic cause for absence from school, and there are sound medical guidelines, especially in the area of physical education, that should be followed by schools to avoid problems.

CMA recommends that school systems adopt the following changes in the physical education curricula in observance to these guidelines:

- Training school personnel to the special problems and needs of asthmatics, and the development of suitable alternative activities.
- Intermittent, one or two-minute bursts of exertion for asthmatics, rather than prolonged, strenuous activity.
- Recognizing swimming as the best sport for asthmatics, followed by golf, bowling, badminton, archery, softball, baseball, ping-pong and soccer. Football, basketball, handball and running are often too strenuous.

Writing in the June issue of California Medical Association's Western Journal of Medicine, Dr. William Ziering of Fresno says that since "children spend a large portion of their wakeful day at school their performance tends to parallel their health."

Dr. Ziering urges school authorities and local medical advisory boards to develop specific guidelines for the special health and welfare needs of asthmatic and allergy-prone children.

IRS TAX ANSWERS

F. S. Schraidt, DISTRICT DIRECTOR, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Jnternal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My family has just adopted an orphan from a foreign country who will live with us in the United States. Are there any special tax deductions or exemptions I can claim?

A. There are no special tax deductions or exemptions for adopting an orhpan from a foreign country. However, if the child was legally adopted, or was placed in your home for adoption by an authorized agency, before the end of the tax year, and if you provided more.. than.. half the child's support for the year, you may claim.. the child as a dependent.

Q. I have been hired for a summer job that will make up my entire income for the year. My total earnings will be several hundred dollars. What can I do to keep from having my federal taxes withheld?

A. If you paid no income tax last year and expect to pay none this tax year, you are eligible for exemption from federal income tax withholding. This exemption entitles you to have no federal income tax withheld from your pay, although FICA (Social Security) and any State tax will still be withheld.

Just obtain a Form W-4E from your employer or the nearest IRS office and return the completed form to your employer.

Q. I am buying a new summer home to be used as a vacation site for my family. Is this transaction eligible for the new five percent housing credit?

A. No. The five percent tax credit applies only to new principal residences, (i.e., you live there most of the year). A summer home or a vacation home does not qualify for the five percent credit. For more details on the housing credit, contact taxpayer assistance in any IRS office.

Q. I recently received as a wedding gift several hundred shares of stock in a major corporation. Is this gift taxable?

A. No. Gifts you receive are not income. However, any dividend or other financial benefit you derive from this gift is taxable income.

Freeway Patrol Gets New Name At Drop of Hat

Men on the construction industry's emergency road service team are taking off their hats to drivers of San Diego. The industry's Hard Hat Freeway Patrol, which has come to the rescue of over 6,000 stranded motorists in its 16 months on local highways, has changed its name to Construction Industry Freeway Patrol, according to an industry spokesman.

The highway troubleshooting team claims to be the only one of its kind in the nation and is paid for entirely by the construction industry.

"The public service is made possible by the Construction Industry Advancement Fund (CIAF) and the more than 28,000 men and women who work in the San Diego construction industry," said Stanley Scott, executive director for CIAF.

"By changing the name, we hope to make the patrol, the service it provides and the sponsor more readily identifiable to the motoring public," he said.

Specially modified and equipped vehicles patrol the major San Diego freeways from 6:15 a.m. to 6:15 p.m., Monday through Friday. Trained Freeway Patrolmen are capable of rendering assistance to disabled motorists whose cars have run out of gas, need water, a tire change or a battery boost.

In addition, the patrolmen are trained to render emergency first aid to accident victims and are equipped to put out vehicle fires.

The Patrol also provides up-to-the-minute traffic reports on nine local radio stations during morning and afternoon peak driving times.

Imperial Corporation Buys Back Stock

Imperial Corporation of America said it intends to purchase, in a block transaction from a private source, 775,000 shares of its common stock at $10 per share.

V. L. Viskas, president, said that, when acquired, the company intends to restore the shares to the status of authorized but unissued shares.

The shares to be purchased represent 5.37 percent of the company's current net outstanding shares.

Man is Treeless

Four cedar trees, valued at $60, were stolen from the yard of James Kielty at 803 La Presa, Spring Valley on July 7, he told sheriff's deputies.

The trees were dug up during the night while Kielty was sleeping, it was reported.

Local Artists Win Ribbons At Del Mar

Left out of last week's list of blue ribbon award winners at the Southern California Exposition was Charles Parker's' oil painting "Lonely Pier in Silent Mist" which won first place in the teen oil painting division. Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Parker of 8102 Jefferson st., Lemon Grove, studies art under Mr. Kiegel at Mt. Miguel High school. His winning painting was his first entry at the fair.

Pleased with his success, Charles, a senior this fall, plans to continue art studies at Palomar College after graduation.

Another omission was Cindy Lintvedt whose charcoal rendering entitled "Your Move" won third place in the graphics division. Cindy, 18, is an art student going into her second year at Grossmont College. She lives with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Arnold M. Lintvedt at 6891 Central ave., Lemon Grove.

Interest Rate Hiked by BoA

Bank of America, largest savings institution in California and the nation, has increased interest paid to passbook savers to 5 per cent annually, effective July 1.

The increase is one-half per cent over the present rate.

It could mean as much as $30 million in increased interest payments to the bank's customers in a single year.

BoA has more than 3.4 million individual passbook accounts. Its passbook savings deposits exceed $6 billion.

The increase in the passbook rate places BoA at the federal interest rate ceiling for all categories of savings plans it offers. Dependent upon length of maturity, size of deposits and withdrawal provisions, the bank offers ten different plans ranging from regular passbook to a long-term savings account that pays 7½ per cent for six years.

'Switch Drivers' Gain Points at Cajon Oval

It's getting so you can't even recognize the drivers with a program out at Cajon Speedway as the top drivers jump from car to car in the battle for the 1975 El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. championship.

Last week after having engine trouble in his own Camaro point leader Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley moved over to Mike Hagerman's car for the heat race and the feature. He was thus able to increase his points spread over Tim Biggers to 205, even though he finished third behind both Larry Aufdengarten and Biggers in the 40-lap main event.

Other drivers changing cars last week included Ron Esau, who drove his father's Camaro in the feaure after qualifying for the semi with his own car. Esau holds a slim 10 point lead over Larry Hageman of Lakeside in the battle for third place in ECSCRA points.

Jim Hitt, who is just out of the top 10, jumped into Steve Nelson's mount after blowing the engine in his Mach I during afternoon practice.

These drivers along with about 55 others will be back in action at Cajon Speedway's 3/8-mile paved oval Saturday night to do battle in another eight event show, which will be topped by a 40-lap main event.

Other Races

Other races include the 15-lap semi, the 10-lap consy, four 8-lap heats, and the traditional 4-lap trophy dash for the four fastest qualifiers.

A special added attraction will be the running of the third destruction derby of the season where 20 junkyard recruits will crash to the end following the super stock feature.

But the limelight will remain on the super stocks, which are in the middle of one of their biggest years with the cars more evenly matched than ever before.

Also on tap next weekend will be the second annual Fan's Day Picnic, to be held Sunday afternoon at the track. Fans will have a chance to meet their favorite drivers at that time.

Gored Adrian Romero Returns to Bullring

Adrian Romero returns to Tijuana for the first time since his spectacular goring there to team with ace matador Curro Rivera and popular Mario Sevilla Sunday in the downtown arena.

Beginning at 4 p.m. they will each face two brave bulls of Carranco.

Romero, 25, of Mexico City was performing superbly in this same bullring, the 14,000-seat El Toreo de Tijuana, when he was gored in the inside of his right thigh on May 25.

He had placed two excellent pairs of banderillas and had broken the third set to a length of about five inches. He planned to place them al quiebro — feinting to deceive the bull in its charge, then sink the sticks as the bull passed.

But the bull, Chicloso of the Reyes Huerta ranch, went for the man instead, goring the matador as it lifted him.

Last summer Romero was especially good in Tijuana, winning two tails, one of them symbolic because his bull's life was spared.

Small Reward

Rivera, 23, of Mexico City fought in Tijuana this season twice in May. He did outstanding work with all four bulls, but he was rewarded with little more than applause and turns around the arena until he killed his last bull with an excelent sword.

Sevila, 26, also of Mexico City enjoyed two spectacular days in Tijuana last summer. The first was August 4 when with a Garfias bull he presented the most extensive and best left-handed work seen at Tijuana last summer.

On Sept. 8 in the Golden Sword corrida his bull was the best of the day and one of the finest of the season. But when Sevilla asked that its life be spared, the plaza judge would not concur. So Sevilla refused to kill it and heard three warnings from the judge's trumpeters before the bull was returned to the corral.

2-Year-Olds Top Hollypark Card In Final Week

The battle for divisional championships among two-year-olds and grass specialists and the conclusion of Sunday Sweep competition, in which $26,000 definitely will be distributed, will highlight action at Hollywood Park during the final weekend of the 1975 thoroughbred racing season.

The most successful meeting in Hollypark history, which will find California records being established for both attendance and mutuel handle, will come to a close Monday, July 21.

That afternoon, Pass The Glass, Montmartre, Barclay Joy and Captain Cee Jay, all victorious in stakes events on the grass this meeting, will head the field for the $125,000 Sunset Handicap, a 12-furlong tour of the Lakeside Turf Course.

Juvenile Day will be the final day of Sunday Sweep, the popular contest that rewards fans for their handicapping skills. The person or persons selecting the most consecutive winners, beginning with the first race, will collect $26,000.

HIGH TAX

Due to increased taxes, a pack of cigarettes sells for about $1.12 in England.

Petro Under State Scrutiny; Diesel Contamination Spotted

What started out as a routine inspection by the California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) of petroleum products at a service station in Tulare County resulted in the removal from sale of more than 3,000 barrels — over 140,000 gallons — of contaminated diesel oil.

Inspectors discovered the problem after a laboratory analysis of the diesel fuel disclosed that it contained gasoline.

The refiner has taken action to track down other sales of possible contaminated diesel oil to wholesale and retail outlets around the state.

CDFA has increased its rate of inspection of unleaded gasoline by 15 per cent thanks to a one-year contract with the Environmental Protection Agency. The contract provides $32,000 for personnel and back up lab work.

Department Director Tim Wallace said that the inspections will be done by the Division of Measurements Standards along with its regular work of checking gasoline pumps for accuracy and petroleum products for proper quantity.

Window Exploded

What appeared to be an explosive device was attached to a plate glass window of the Cornet Store no. 16 at 1047 Elkelton in Spring Valley Thursday night, June 26.

The device broke a plate glass window valued at $250 and the burglar took four pairs of sun glasses valued at $5 each from the window, according to Maybelle J. Vollrath, Cornet manager.

A witness is said to have heard an explosion about 2 a.m. Friday.

Cameron Bros. Bid Lowest on Chase Ave. Pipeline Replacement

Cameron Brothers Construction Co., Inc. of San Diego, was the low bidder last week for Helix Water Districts Chase Ave. Pipeline project. The Cameron bid of $975,491.82 was $3,400 under the nearest competitor.

The Chase Ave. Pipeline is being built ot replace the old "flume" line which carries water around the southern rim of El Cajon valley to Lemon Grove and La Mesa. It is one of four major projects approved for revenue bond financing by voters of the district last November.

Clarence Watters, Helix associate general manager and chief engineer, requested a delay in awarding the contract so the staff could work out scheduling discrepancies.

Second low bid came from Tab Construction, Inc. of Las Vegas, at $978,903. Third low bid was entered by Long, Marker & Howley Construction Co. of Spring Valley at $982,702.

Engineer's estimate for the job was $1 million.

Bar Stools Stolen

In Lemon Grove, on July 10, someone entered the vacant house at 1547 Larwood dr. and stole objects valued at $225. Three high-back bar stools comprised a major part of the loss Ronald L. Ball, the owner said.

$150 Window Broken

Someone tossed an unknown object at a window in the commercial building at 8614 Troy st., in Spring Valley on July 10, breaking it.

The building is owned by Lloyd Hanson. He said it cost $150 to replace it.

NOTICE OF INTENT . . . A sign posting a new convenience food store's intent to sell alcoholic beverages foreshadows workmen at the site of a multi-shop building project at Broadway and Kempf st. behind Jack-In-the Box restaurant. Alcoholic beverages will be sold at the store.
The store's presence, less than a block from Golden Avenue Elementary school, has raised concern with Lemon Grove school officials. Board members discussed the potential zoning conflict at last week's trustees meeting and cited the failure to block the sale of alcohol at a Food Basket market because of its nearness to the same school. Workmen pictured are SDG&E employees installing new utility poles.

Arson Plagues State Forestry

Arson is a problem across the nation and San Diego County is no exception, nor is the back country in this county exempt from the arson's touch. According to the National Fire Protection Association, there were over 100,000 fires intentionally set last year, causing 845 million dollars in damage.

Last year the California Division of Forestry (CDF) responded to 65 wild fires of incendiary nature in San Diego County. These fires consumed hundreds of acres and caused thousands of dollars in properey damage.

No Accident

Fires that are intentionally set are not always set by the fire loving pyromaniac. According to the latest statistics the pyromaniac caused fire in only a small percentage of arson fires.

Fires that are set as a revenge or out of anger account for the majority of arson fires. CDF predicts that arson fires may increase by as much as 20% during 1975, as people will try to defraud insurance companies by claiming losses due to fire.

1 to 20 Years

The California Penal Code states that the willful and malicious burning of any building, dwelling, personal property, property of another person, or any brush covered land is punishable by imprisonment from 1 to 20 years depending on the crime. The code also states that any person possessing an incendiary device can be imprisoned.

The California Division of Forestry, under Public Code 4417, will pay $500 for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person who willfully and maliciously sets a fire in state responsibility areas.

Valley Man Named to Board Of C&V Bureau

J. R. 'Pob' Belt, of 4032 Rogers rd., Spring Valley will serve on the board of directors of the San Diego Convention and Visitors Bureau during the coming fiscal year, it was announced this week by Carleton Lichty, new chairman of the board of the Bureau.

Lichty, president of the Hotel del Coronado, was elected to head the Bureau for the coming year, succeeding Thomas J. Stokes, district sales manager for American Airlines.

C. Terry Brown, president of Atlas Hotels, Inc., becomes first vice chairman of the Bureau. Also named vice chairmen were Anthony A. Ghio, co-owner of Anthony's Fish Grottos, and Robert Bollum, president of Land Title Insurance Co.

Others taking office were Dr. Albert L. Anderson, secretary; Thomas W. Sefton, president of San Diego Trust & Savings Bank, treasurer, and Dal L. Watkins, president.

SDC&V Bureau is a nonprofit association dedicated to community improvements through tourism. The Bureau conducts a wide ranging marketing program to program to promote the visitor industry, which annually brings into the City and County more than $400-million to support the area's recreation and entertainment facilities. It also sustains 36,600 jobs and a $153.1-million payroll.

Youth Labor Law Offenses Double During Summer

In recent weeks since school vacations began, complaints of child labor law violations have about doubled, according to state labor commissioner James L. Quillin. He says that illegal employment of young people generally increases during the summer months.

Most common violations involve 12 to 17 year olds without work permits, working overtime or exposed to hazardous working conditions.

Child labor laws are enforced by Quillin's staff in the Division of Labor Law Enforcement (LIE), a unit of the State Department of Industrial Relations headed by Donald Vial. LIE maintains offices in 22 cities throughout California, and the public should check with the nearest LIE office on questions about laws governing gainful employment for young people.

Permits Required

The law requires youngsters under age 18 to secure work permits from their school authorities before they can accept paid employment, even during school holidays and vacations. Work permits are not required for occasional odd jobs in private homes, suh as leaf raking, lawn mowing, and babysitting and most newspaper delivery boys and girls do not need permits.

Children under 12 years of age are not permitted gainful employment except in the theatrical industry or on their parents' farms.

During summer vacations youngsters under 18 years of age can work as much as 48 hours in one week, but not more than eight hours in one day.

Employers must pay those under 18 at least $1.70 an hour, the State minimum for minors.

The law restricts youths under 16 years of age from working in dangerous occupations like operating any automobile, motor car or truck; working in any bowling alley, pool or billiard room; where there is dust in injurious quantities or where dangerous or poisonous acids, gases, dyes or lye are being used.

Also forbidden are jobs on a railroad or boat, on scaffolding or in heavy construction. No child under 16 may work in a tunnel or exacation site, in a mine, coke oven, or quarry, in a tobacco processing plant or at any occupation dangerous to life or limb or injurious to the health or morals of a child.

Arson Attempt Reported Here

Adella Frey, a waitress, who lives in a mobile home complex at 9902 Jamacha rd. in Spring Valley, was a victim of an intended arson attempt about 5 a.m. July 10, she told sheriff''s deputies.

She noted the strong smell of gasoline beneath her kitchen window that morning and investigated.
